

Dr. Bryan Hagerman

Bryan Hagerman lives in Dartmouth Nova Scotia, with his wife Janine and children, Christianne, and Liam-Patrick. Bryan is currently Senior Pastor of Regal Road Baptist Church, where he has been since the Fall of 2004. Before coming to Dartmouth Bryan was Senior Pastor of "Church In The Great Hall, Toronto", followed by a stint as Coordinator of the Alpha Course at "The People's Church, Toronto." Bryan served in Kenya, East Africa from 1981-91, 94-95. He began by teaching at Garissa Secondary School, followed by seven years at the famed International School, "The Rift Valley Academy." While there, he also served as pastor of an African church in the Great Rift Valley. While at RVA, Bryan taught African Culture, Kiswahili, and conducted cultural safaris throughout East Africa. He coached and refereed several sports at the national level, such as soccer, basketball, and volleyball. Bryan is an honorary member of the Masai tribe. From 1994-95 Bryan was involved in Leadership Development with four urban churches in Nairobi. A lover of all things African, Bryan has an extensive collection of African artifacts, and a thousand or more African stories. Bryan graduated from Acadia Divinity College in the Spring of 1994 with his Masters in Divinity and in 2008 with his Doctor of Ministry degree. He has an MA from Azusa Pacific University in Los Angeles, a BA, and B.ED from St Thomas University. Bryan keeps busy as an active participant in several volunteer capacities in his community. He is involved with the Safe Arrival and School Advisory Committee at Astral Drive Elementary School, coaching for the Cole Harbour Soccer Club and serves as a Board member of the Oakwood Terrace Senior's home, Dartmouth. Bryan has written several, yet to be published, children's books including: "The Adventures of Ole Tip Tip" and "Life In The Dustbowl, Life On The Run." Bryan considers it a personal thrill to be involved with Acadia University, his Alma Mater.
